

Western European companies interested in CE Biotech Region potential

Three months ahead to BioForum 2010 a number of Western European companies is interested in cooperation and development of biobusinesses in biotech, pharma and life-sciences sector in Central Europe. By now, 70 exhibitors confirmed their participation, and this number increases dynamically

Note on:

- AES CHEMUNEX (France) - is the first manufacturer to develop a full line of tools for microbiology laboratories, from sample collection to results.
- LORENZ LIFE SCIENCE GROUP (Germany) – is the leading innovator for e-Regulatory Affairs solutions globally. As the most focused and established solution in this field, LORENZ' software is responsible for more electronic submissions globally than any other solution on the market
- IMGM (Germany) – is fully accredited for gene expression analysis based on whole genome microarrays and quantitative real-time PCR. Furthermore, IMGM is Agilent Certified Service Provider (CSP) for gene expression microarrays.
- BIOLINE (UK) – partner for molecular biology reagents. Bioline is a primary manufacturer of reagents which have been developed to support scientific studies in academic and research laboratories.

These companies will participate not only in the trade part of BioForum. Under their activity is also BioPartnering, which is a unique catalyst for the development of business contacts. Unique computing program BioPartnering is the ability to direct meetings with potential scientific/business partners.

BioPartnering enables and promotes dialogue between science and business in the LifeScience, key factor in dynamic development both of these areas
